SOUTH DAKOTA, July 27, 2011--

Wildflower Press announces the release of the haunting new novella, Muted Grey, which will go on sale November 1, 2011. Muted Grey, by Dianna L. Young, is a work of fiction depicting one fateful day in the lives of five very different women who all share one thing in common. As the day progresses, their lives, and the lives of those around them, will be irreparably changed.

Muted Grey is a powerful and thought provoking book. Fraught with symbolism and an irresistible plot, the story is sure to resonate in the minds of readers long after the last page has been turned.

Ms. Young, writer and public speaker, has worked in various aspects of publishing for nearly twenty years. After several years in the industry, she went on to start a small mid-western newspaper before founding two successful regional magazines. Muted Grey is Ms. Young's first published novel.

Muted Grey will be available for purchase in the U.S., as well as in the U.K. An electronic edition of Muted Grey is pending.
